FY2026 Integrated Air and Missile Defense Shooting Practice (I-ASP)

From September 13 to October 7, the Koku-Jieitai (JASDF) conducted Integrated Air and Missile Defense (IAMD) live-fire training with its air defense missile units in the United States.
The Koku-Jieitai carried out combined live-fire training with the Japan Ground Self-Defense Force (JGSDF), bilateral training with the United States Army, and Counter-Unmanned Aircraft Systems (C-UAS) training, to enhance tactical proficiency and Japan-U.S. response capabilities.
In addition, through multilateral subject matter expert exchanges and engagements with senior leaders of the United States Army and the Armed Forces of the Philippines, the Koku-Jieitai deepened mutual understanding in the area of air and missile defense and strengthened cooperation with the ally and like-minded countries.

