

Chief of Staff participated in NATO Partner Air Chiefs' Conference

On November 14, General Izutsu, Chief of Staff, Koku-Jieitai (Japan Air Self-Defense Force) joined Partners Air Chiefs' Conference hosted by NATO online.

He made a presentation on Japan-NATO cooperation. He referred to their collaboration so far, arguing about how they can work together on common challenges stated in NATO's new Strategic Concept, gaining understanding and endorsement of participants from various countries.

In addition, he audited other presentations delivered by briefers including air chiefs to acquire expertise on challenges of NATO member states and its partner countries, as well as their awareness. Koku-Jieitai will continue to strengthen cooperation with NATO.
