

Subject Matter Expert Exchange on Air Warning and Control with Mongolian Air Force Command

On December 18 and 19, the Western Aircraft Control and Warning Wing welcomed four officers from the Air Force Command, Mongolian Armed Forces, and conducted a subject matter expert exchange (SMEE) on air control and warning. The SMEE was an unit-level exchange between Japan and Mongolia air services, coming on the heels of the SMEE on air traffic control held last October. Participants from both sides actively exchanged views and deepen mutual understanding and relationship of trust as professionals at working level.

Japan and Mongolia are like-minded countries sharing universal values such as freedom, democracy, respect for basic human rights, and the rule of law. Koku-Jieitai (Japan Air Self-Defense Force) will pursue enhancing mutual capabilities through defense cooperation and exchanges in various fields, strengthening the bilateral security relationship and contributing to peace and stability in the region.
